

President Speaks

Dear Students,

I welcome you to KNCW the educational hub of Phagwara, where students acquire academic as well as vocational skills in a secure, productive and pioneering environment transforming them into enlightened individuals, empowered to shape the destiny of the society and the nation.

KNCW stands tall as a living example of the missionary zeal of its founding fathers to educate and empower the females of the area and help them become productive members of society. This torch of fruitful advancement was carried forward by my father Late Sh. I.K. Sardana under whose stewardship the college achieved unprecedented heights and created new benchmarks on the academic horizon of the region. The main motto of the institution is to instil knowledge, confidence and a sense of purpose among girls for contributing their mite in harmonious upliftment of the nation.

In recent decades it has been observed that women are becoming highly confident and ambitious to carve a unique niche for themselves in society. With stars in their eyes and lofty goals in front of them, they are ready to tread on their paths to success with grit and determination. We, at KNCW, will help you realize your dreams and reach the top by channelizing your energies in right direction through student centric activities and nurturing in you the values of hard work, leadership and liberal outlook full of tolerance.

I am very hopeful that the new entrants will join the college main streams to heighten and enhance the image of the institution.

Warm wishes for your stay in this temple of learning, a period of purpose and fulfillment.
